In the vibrant celebration of Australia Day, you may have noticed Gertrude WellEase as she moved through the crowd, leaving an indelible mark on the festivities. The charismatic MC who effortlessly guided the event was not just a whimsical personality but the brainchild of artist, Liz Jack. The Walpole Weekly had the privilege of sitting down with Liz to delve into the genesis of Gertrude, shedding light on the character's profound connection to community, art, and personal growth.

Hailing from Denmark, Gertrude WellEase emerged in 2010 as part of the Denmark Arts Brave New Works Festival. Gertrude, wielding a cane trolley and butterfly net roamed the streets and Real Estate agents, seeking housing for her artistic friends after she was advised to go onto the Net to find potential rentals. The narrative of this performance persists to this day as communities respond to the housing challenges faced by many in our regional locations.

Gertrude stands as an embodiment of the delicate balance between creativity and life's responsibilities. Liz shared, "Gertrude represents the artistic spirit, urging us all to persist in our creative pursuits despite the demands of everyday life. She is a firm believer in face to face community engagement and the power of creativity in regional economic development and small business."

The character has actively participated in Walpole events, taking on the role of an MC, further solidifying her position as a fierce advocate for the significance of arts in community development.

Love in Leap Years: Beyond the fantastical world of Gertrude, Liz Jack and her longtime partner Mark are scripting their own unique love story. For the past few leap years, Gertrude and Liz proposed to Mark in a public performance. In 2024, Shari Graham a marriage celebrant and well-known speaker from Ecoburba, along with the organisers of the Nannup Music Festival, offered anyone interested, the chance to get married at the Festival.

When art, love, and community converge in such a magical opportunity, one can only say yes. Their upcoming nuptials promise to be as extraordinary as their long love story, and promise to be both ritual and performance.

There is a deeper story underneath the frills, that relates to the industry that has developed around the ritual of marriage. Weddings can be seriously overwhelming, and our focus was on the spontaneous nature of the opportunity. While it may seem unconventional, it also makes great sense, both as a way of expressing our love for each other, the arts and a community of friends and festival lovers.

Below is a quote from Phaedra Watts - organiser of the Nannup Music Festival:

Gertrude has been a colourful part of the Nannup Music Festival for as long back as I recall, in fact- she brightens the whole southwest, and everywhere she wanders.

I was so heart-warmed when she contacted me to say she was thinking of taking up Shani's incredible offer as a Celebrant for anyone wanting to marry while at the Nannup Music Festival.

Luckily Mark was equally excited about this opportunity. Gertrude is getting MARRIED at the Nannup Music Festival - I think that it's going to be a very precious moment, for the couple, their family and friends - but also the adoring crowds at the festival who will be able to feel part of this very special occasion. We congratulate Gertrude and her fiancé and wish them a never-ending road of love.

~Phaedra Watts

Below is a quote from Shani Graham - the officiant at the Nannup Music Festival:

I have never married as vibrant and exciting a couple as Gertrude/Liz and Mark. I am so glad they took up the challenge. Now I just need to decide - what does one wear to such an event?

~Shani Graham

So ladies, this is your chance to propose - you have 21 days left to do so!

~Story by the Walpole Weekly, with thanks to Liz Jack (and Gertrude)

IT Tips: 2 Factor Authentication

In today's digital era, protecting our online information has never been more critical. With the rise in cyber threats, simple password protection is often not enough to secure our digital accounts. This is where Two-Factor Authentication (2FA) comes into play, offering an extra layer of security that could make all the difference. Here's what you need to know about 2FA and why it's essential for everyone.

What is Two-Factor Authentication?

Two-Factor Authentication is a security process in which users provide two different authentication factors to verify themselves. This method adds an additional layer of security to the authentication process, making it harder for attackers to gain access to a person's devices or online accounts because knowing the victim's password alone is not enough to pass the authentication check.

How Does 2FA Work?

2FA works by requiring two types of information from the user before they can access their account. The first factor is something the user knows, like a password or PIN. The second factor is something the user has, such as a smartphone app that generates a time-sensitive code, or a physical token. Sometimes, it can also involve something the user is, like a fingerprint or facial recognition, which are forms of biometric verification.

Types of Two-Factor Authentication

1. SMS and Email Codes: A code is sent to the user's phone or email, which they must enter along with their password.
2. Authentication Apps: Apps like Google Authenticator or Authy generate codes that change every 30 seconds. Users must enter the current code to access their account.

3. Physical Tokens: Small devices that generate a new code at the push of a button, which users then enter when prompted.
4. Biometric Methods: Fingerprint or facial recognition can also serve as the second factor in 2FA.

Why is 2FA Important?

- Enhanced Security: Even if a hacker manages to steal your password, they would still need the second factor to gain access to your account, significantly reducing the risk of unauthorised access.
- Protection Against Phishing: Phishing attacks, where attackers trick users into giving away their passwords, are less effective when 2FA is in place.
- Compliance: For businesses, using 2FA can help comply with regulations that require protected data to be secured with multiple authentication methods.

How to Enable 2FA

Most online services now offer 2FA protection. You can usually find the option to enable it in the security settings of your account. The process typically involves verifying your phone number or email address, downloading an authentication app, or setting up a physical token.

In conclusion, Two-Factor Authentication is a simple yet effective way to add an extra layer of security to your online accounts. As cyber threats become more sophisticated, adopting 2FA across all your digital platforms is a smart move to protect your personal and financial information.

Remember, in the world of online security, it's always better to be safe than sorry.

Cash is king... or is it?

"Businesses have to accept legal tender." It's a comment we hear a lot at Consumer Protection, so I wanted to take the opportunity to clear this up and let you know what the law says about it.

Businesses can choose which payment types they accept. It is legal for a business to specify the terms and conditions that they will supply goods and services. This includes whether they will accept cash payment.

However, you must be made aware of these terms and conditions before you make a purchase. This could be a clear sign at the register or door stating the business does not accept cash, or the staff verbally informing you that you can't pay with cash.

We know a lot of people like to pay with cash to avoid credit card surcharges. The good news is there are rules about this too. Card surcharges are permitted under the Australian Consumer Law, however the fee must only reflect what it actually costs the business to process the payment, such as bank fees or terminal costs. If a business charges a payment surcharge, it must be able to prove the costs it is based on.

If there is no other way for you to pay without incurring a surcharge, then the business must include the fee in the total cost. For example, your local café charges $5 for a coffee, but they do not accept cash, and all card payments are surcharged. Then it is not possible for you to buy that coffee at $5. If the surcharge is 1% then the price displayed must clearly be $5.05 so you can easily tell how much your coffee really costs.

While the costs associated with taking card payments is obvious, there are also costs for dealing in cash. Handling cash costs businesses in time and wages.

Remember, purchasing goods or services is entering into an agreement with a seller. You do not have to agree to make the purchase if the payment methods aren't acceptable to you. But, it is legal for the business to refuse to accept cash so long as they have made this clear.

If you believe a business is breaching the rules, it's best to broach it with them first. Should negotiations fail, contact Consumer Protection on 1300 30 40 54, or consumer@dmirs.wa.gov.au

Nature Notes: King's Skink

This large black lizard or skink was on our back verandah. They may give us a fright but they are not harmful to humans. Their scientific name is Egernia Kingii. Skinks are different from lizards in that the size of their legs is smaller in comparison to their body. King's Skink has short stubby ones. They can grow up to 55cm long and weigh 227gm (8ozs). They have fine scales which are black with white or grey markings. The ones we see around here are fairly dark. The underside is paler. These skinks are omnivores and eat soft plant material such as dandelions and pigface and also birds' eggs. There is also evidence they eat mice and insects. They are found on off-shore islands and in mainland habitats such as coastal heath and open forest in the southwest of WA.

King's skinks are viviparous which means they give birth to live young. The gestation period is 20-22 days. There may be 2-8 babies which are about 7gms when born. Similar skinks in the eastern states show maternal care of the young. It is not known if west Australian ones have this behavior, but in any case infant mortality is high. Skinks are food for many animals including Tiger snakes. They are slow growing so must live quite a long time.

The traditional name for King's Skink is Wandy; this was given to the Skink by the Noongar people of Western Australia. The European name was given in honour of Phillip Parker King who was an Officer in the Royal Navy. A drawing of one was done by Ferdinand Bauer on the Flinders expedition in 1901.

Manjimup Shire Bulletin

February 2024

SHIRE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I am hoping you all had a chance to unwind and enjoy a break over the festive season.

The grand ol' lady, our town Christmas tree, made her come back. Thank you to the Manjimup Chamber of Commerce and Industry, special thanks to Kim Starkie and the many local businesses that made it happen.

It has been a challenging time on the fire front with lightning strikes testing our volleys. I sincerely thank you for giving up your family time to ensure the safety of our communities. Speaking of volunteers, congratulations to the 21 nominees for the 2024 Citizen of the Year awards. Volunteers are the life blood of our towns, thanking them just never seems enough.

This year the Shire of Manjimup is celebrating the nominees in a display at the Art Gallery next to the Manjimup library. Pop in and read about the amazing efforts our nominees have made – there is an opportunity to nominate for next years' awards, so put your thinking hats on.

Heads up – Shire of Manjimup Community Grants are opening soon, start thinking how the Shire can support your event or group.

Finally, I'd like to catch up with you in your town. On the first Monday of each month I will be spending the day finding out what is important to you.

Monday 5th February :

- Northcliffe Visitors Centre from 9-12
- Quinninup Tavern from 12 - 2

March will be Pemberton and Walpole. I am looking forward to hearing what you think and feel. Stay safe, see you soon

Donelle Buegge
(Shire President)
