This year's Engel Pioneer Cup saw George Doust and Trevor Ramirez team up for the first time and take the honours. George has been playing in this event for 35 years but had to move out of Walpole to win this year's Engel Pioneer Cup! George and Trevor had a score of 90 for the weekend, Mick Jeffs and Fred Simmonds were Runners Up with a score of 89. Best Visitors' prize went to Dave Kennedy and Ross Fouracres, R/Up Visitors went to Andrew Donkin and Kenneth Adams.

The weekend began with the Walpole Hardware & Rural Supplies Trophy on Friday and 135 players took part. Michael Green from Melville Glades in Perth won the Day with +5 playing great golf, Runner up was Tom Rouse with +4. It was a terrific day and only 7 players had a plus score.

The 1st Round of The Engel Pioneer Cup was on Saturday with 104 (208 Players) teams taking part on a very dry golf course.

Leith Edwards and Dean Gliosca won the Saturday round with 47 points from Per Joensson and Kerry Halse on 45 points.

The 2nd Round, played on Sunday, saw the Knight brothers, Roger and Ross, win the Day from Neil Haywood and Brett Symons.

On Saturday night we were entertained by the greatest band in Walpole, Dig the Dust. Robbie, Doug and Ross (smokin' up the bass) were a big hit! We can't thank them enough, they are awesome.

Thanks to all the many sponsors we have for the weekend. The Club is very grateful to Engel, Elders, Walpole IGA, Walpole Hotel, GJ Freight, Rest Point, Che Sara Sara, WOW, Albany Golf Club and Denmark Golf Club and many others.

Big thanks to all the many volunteers who worked hard providing food and drinks; the Work Camp guys along with Peter Mount who got the place looking a treat, the Tournament organisers, Phil who does everything and also the players without whom we could not present the Engel Pioneer Cup.

We look forward to next year - March 14th-16th.

Walpole Community Resource Centre hosts successful Microsoft Publisher and Excel Workshops

In a recent educational initiative, the Walpole Community Resource Centre facilitated a workshop focused on enhancing digital literacy among local community members. The sessions concentrated on Microsoft Publisher and Microsoft Excel, two cornerstone tools in the realm of digital documentation and data management.

The Microsoft Publisher workshop, led by Regan Marsh, provided participants with a comprehensive understanding of desktop publishing, delving into the creation of professional-looking documents, including newsletters, flyers, and brochures; gaining hands-on experience that is directly applicable in both personal and professional contexts.

Simultaneously, Nicole Munro took the helm of the Microsoft Excel workshop, offering an in-depth exploration of this powerful spreadsheet software. The course covered essential functions and formulas, chart creation, and data analysis techniques.

The workshops saw enthusiastic participation from three dedicated learners, who all reported a highly informative and enjoyable experience. The success of these sessions underscores the Resource Centre's commitment to enabling our community to access vital educational resources and training.

Such initiatives are in line with our mission to foster capacity building within the community, addressing issues of disadvantage by equipping individuals with the skills necessary for personal and professional development. By offering access to, and training in,

key information technologies, we continue to support the Walpole Community

Stay tuned for more workshops and training sessions aimed at enhancing our community's skillset and ensuring that our members remain connected and competent users of technology.

Nature Notes: Kangaroo Paws

The red and green Kangaroo paw (Anigozanthos) is Western Australia's floral emblem. Along with Macropidia (commonly known as the black kangaroo paw) they grow in the southwest of WA.

They are an important part of the cut flower market and are grown commercially in USA, Israel and Japan. Here in Walpole we have the green and black Kangaroo paws. The scientific team at Kings Park has used tissue culture to develop many hybrids of different colours and these are often grown by home gardeners. Cats' paws are also members of this family.

The flowers get their colour by hairs which grow all over the flower. The flowers are especially designed to attract pollinators, namely birds and small mammals such as honey possums. The flowers are tube shaped and attract creatures with nectar. A row of pollen-bearing anthers and a stigma are positioned at the top of the flower and as a bird or animal visits to drink the nectar, pollen is brushed on the forehead of the visitor; when visiting another flower fertilisation takes place. Cross-fertilisation is prevented by the position of the deposited pollen. Seeds are then produced, but in gardening situations kangaroo paws are quite hard to propagate which is why commercial growers propagate them using tissue culture. This takes advantage of the fact that a plant cell is able to develop into a whole new plant.

Some Kangaroo paw clumps die back in winter and sprout again in summer. They have a lignotuber under the ground and energy is stored in this over the dormant period. The leaves are strappy and rush like and the green and black kangaroo paw seems to be able to grow in boggy areas and in clay soils. The green Kangaroo paw that we have around here is sometimes called the tall kangaroo paw, as they can grow up to a metre.

The Kangaroo paw is so-named because the end of the flower looks like a paw. The starchy roots have been used as a source of food for Noongar people. The plant has also been used as a source of red dye in the Northern Territory. The Noongar people call the Kangaroo paw Kurulbrang or Nollamara or Yonga Marra depending on the local language. We have so many amazing indigenous plants that it is easy to take them for granted.

Aged Care in Walpole

Hello, lovely people of Walpole!

My name is Mel and I am a trainer with My Flex Health.

I had the absolute pleasure of delivering a 3-day training package to some of your awesome support workers who will be ensuring some of the older locals can stay in their homes by providing them with support. How great is that!

I am very new to My Flex Health and was pretty nervous to stand in front of a group of strangers and deliver this training, however I pulled my big girl knickers up, pushed the fear down and soldiered on. I am so glad I did, I'm not sure who had more fun, me or the support workers!

The 3 days consisted of personal care on Day 1 where everyone got to experience what it felt like to brush each other's teeth! I ask all of my participants to put themselves in their clients' shoes and practise on one another to really experience what it feels like. Having empathy is really important.

Day 2 was medication management which was a massive day! Most of the participants had not dealt with medications ever so were feeling pretty overwhelmed. At the end of the day, I pulled out my training bum which is a tool we use to educate about bowel medications. It can be a fairly embarrassing topic to teach and also an embarrassing topic to discuss for everyone. I use humour a lot to break the ice and to help others feel comfortable; boy did we laugh that day? It was a really fun way to end the day!

Day 3 was manual handling, which was another big day! Everyone got to experience what it felt like to be assisted using mechanical aides like hoists, commodes and wheelchairs. I know when you say manual handling, everyone groans and thinks boring, but ask any of my participants. It was not a boring day!

I would like to thank Trinity, Cherie and Walpole CRC for hosting me, Jill Hayman for the amazing catering, and thanks to Care Community and Mable, who provided the funding for training. Rural areas are often forgotten and have limited access to training and funding.

I'm passionate about rural/regional areas being provided with adequate training and will continue to travel around doing so.

Again, a BIG thank you to everyone. I had a wonderful time doing what I love. I think Walpole now has the most highly qualified support workers in the country! How lucky you are!

Love, Mel

Stretch 'n' Tone Class Wednesdays 9am Walpole Recreation Centre

For two years, a small group of Walpole seniors have continued to stretch and tone their muscles using a video recording prepared by the Walpole Community Resource Centre. In March 2022, Trinity Smith and Regan Marsh kindly assisted the class by recording a workout conducted by their fitness instructor, Jenny Rutter, to enable the class to continue using her programme while she toured Australia.

Jenny, who now lives in Denmark, returned to Walpole last December, to do a special session at the end of year windup. She was amazed at how everyone's ability had improved. As Jenny says, 'Motion is Lotion!'

On Wednesday 27th March 2024, Jenny is returning for a second video recording. She will teach strength stretches for the first half hour and then incorporate these into an additional one hour recorded session.

If you are interested in participating, this would be a terrific opportunity to meet Jenny and learn the stretches. It is a mixed gender group. After class we currently meet for a coffee at Walpole BP.

Classes 9-10.30am, $2.50/ session
(normally a 1-hour workout).

Bring a yoga mat or towel, small pillow if you have neck stiffness.

Child Care Centre quality standards Achieved

Please note: faces of the children have been blurred as is the Walpole Weekly's new policy

In November last year the Walpole Family Centre was assessed by the WA Education and Care Regulatory Unit and we've now received their final report. We are proud to say that we are meeting all the National Quality Standards!

Here's part of what the report had to say about our child care centre:

"It was evident during the visit that educators have established nurturing, respectful relationships with children and families, which is consistent with the service philosophy. The service is commended for representing the cultures of the enrolled children, families and educators, and creating programmed experiences including excursions into the community, learning about Walpole history and incursions from family members that reflect the broader community.

Educators are commended for meaningfully engaging with one another to critically reflect on further opportunities to improve the service's planned and reflective approach to implementing the programme for each child.

We wish the service well as you continue your quality improvement journey to achieve the best outcomes for the children attending your service."

Thank you Nicky, Sandi and all our educators and support staff for your hard work during the assessment and rating process. And thank you for providing such a great service for our Walpole children.
